Growth of Eucheuma denticulatum (spinosum) cultivated with a net bag verticulture method

Abstract. Challenges encountered in seaweed cultivation in Pahawang Island, Indonesia include grazing by rabbitfish and sea turtles. Strong currents and waves also often cause seaweed crop failures in this region. To address these problems, a net bag method was developed. Meanwhile, a verticulture method was developed to overcome plot limitations and increase efficiency. The objective of this study was to determine the daily growth rate (DGR) and absolute growth rate (AGR) of the seaweed Eucheuma

A verticulture method combining the verticulture concept with the use of net bags was designed to survive in strong currents and high waves, common in the study area. The study aimed to explore the effectiveness of a net bag verticulture method developed based on a previous verticulture method (Hendri et al 2018) by measuring the growth of the seaweed Eucheuma denticulatum (trade name spinosum) cultivated using this method. If successful, this method should be cost-effective, easy to control, and yield higher production volumes, as well as being more resistant to pest and grazers attacks than the methods commonly in use in the region.

Material and Method

Time and place. This research on net bag verticulture seaweed cultivation took place from September to November 2019 in the waters around Pahawang Island, in Jeralangan Sub-Village, Pesawaran District, Lampung Province, Indonesia (Figure 1). The research site faces the open sea and is exposed to strong currents and large waves.

Editor suggest quite substantial edits.
We respectfully request you to perform the following steps in order for your manuscript to be submitted on 15th February along with the other ISF manuscripts.

1. Please add all the references already quoted which are not listed in the References section. These are marked with yellow highlights in the text and in red font with yellow highlight in the Reference section.
2. Please review the authors and the Acknowledgment sections. It is unclear whether the researchers named in your "Authors contributions" section should be added as authors (with their institutions) or added to the Acknowledgments. This is your decision, but the status of these researchers needs to be clear in your revised manuscript. There seem to be some possible duplicates in acknowledgments as well as one entry which cannot be understood. If necessary, provide information in Indonesian and we will translate.
3. Please confirm or reject all the changes made by our review and editing team, including the suggested addition of three references (pale blue highlight).
4. Please address all other comments made in the manuscript. Most are highlighted in yellow.

We very much hope you can complete these revisions as soon as possible. Please do not hesitate to contact us if you require assistance. If necessary, you may explain any problems in Indonesian.

Dear Mr Muhammad Hendri

please find attached a revised version of your manuscript. While your manuscript is very interesting, our internal reviewers and English Editor suggest quite substantial edits. We respectfully request you to perform the following steps in order for your manuscript to be submitted on 15th February along with the other ISF manuscripts.

Windows taskbar at the bottom shows the time as 9:17 AM on 4/11/2023, with a temperature of 26°C in Kabut. An "Activate Windows" watermark is visible in the bottom right corner.

The Gmail interface includes a search bar with the text "Telusuri dalam email" and a "Aktif" status. The left sidebar shows navigation options: Mail (99+), Chat, Spaces, and Meet. The main content area displays a list of emails, with the selected email showing a list of instructions:

1. Please add all the references already quoted which are not listed in the References section. These are marked with yellow highlights in the text and in red font with yellow highlight in the Reference section.
2. Please review the authors and the Acknowledgment sections. It is unclear whether the researchers named in your "Authors contributions" section should be added as authors (with their institutions) or added to the Acknowledgments. This is your decision, but the status of these researchers needs to be clear in your revised manuscript. There seem to be some possible duplicates in acknowledgments as well as one entry which cannot be understood. If necessary, provide information in Indonesian and we will translate.
3. Please confirm or reject all the changes made by our review and editing team, including the suggested addition of three references (pale blue highlight).
4. Please address all other comments made in the manuscript. Most are highlighted in yellow.

We very much hope you can complete these revisions as soon as possible. Please do not hesitate to contact us if you require assistance. If necessary, you may explain any problems in Indonesian.

We wish you all the best and hope to hear back from you soon
